

What is this course about?

This course offers students the opportunity to engage with French at the next level through daily, real-life and authentic social interactions. By studying the four strands of language and incorporating various aspects of La Francophonie, students will learn to improve their communication skills through collaboration with peers and exchanging of ideas, information and opinions on various topics related to themselves, their lives and the community around them. The goal of this course is to enable students to gain greater confidence and independence in the use of their French skills in class, and more importantly, in spontaneous interactions out in the real world.

Example Assessments

- DELF-style final exam with listening, reading and written components to prepare students if they wish to take the official DELF exam in Grade 12
- Discussion-based end of semester project to consolidate skills

What will I be doing in class?

Speaking

- Prepared and spontaneous communication activities based on concepts, vocabulary and structures studied
- Individual, pair or group games, skits or opinion-oriented tasks

Listening

- Watching a francophone tv series to discuss/evaluate understanding
- while also gaining exposure to current vocabulary and expressions
- Formal listening activities from the DELF at the grade 11 level (A2 to B1)

Reading

- Study and analysis of articles, short stories and classic literature in graphic novel format

Writing

- Study and review of major grammatical concepts to help enhance writing
- In-class quizzes and written tasks to practice applying grammar structures and concepts in various contexts

What is this course about?

This course offers students the opportunity to engage with French at the next level through daily, real-life and authentic social interactions. By studying the four strands of language and incorporating various aspects of La Francophonie, students will learn to improve their communication skills through collaboration with peers and exchanging of ideas, information and opinions on various topics related to themselves, their lives and the community around them. The goal of this course is to enable students to gain greater confidence and independence in the use of their French skills in class, and more importantly, in spontaneous interactions out in the real world.

Example Assessments

- DELF-style final exam with listening, reading and written components to prepare students if they wish to take the official DELF exam in Grade 12
- Discussion-based end of semester project to consolidate skills

What will I be doing in class?

Speaking

- Prepared and spontaneous communication activities based on concepts, vocabulary and structures studied
- Individual, pair or group games, skits or opinion-oriented tasks

Listening

- Watching a francophone tv series to discuss/evaluate understanding
- while also gaining exposure to current vocabulary and expressions
- Formal listening activities from the DELF at the grade 11 level (A2 to B1)

Reading

- Study and analysis of articles, short stories and classic literature in graphic novel format

Writing

- Study and review of major grammatical concepts to help enhance writing
- In-class quizzes and written tasks to practice applying grammar structures and concepts in various contexts

CORE FRENCH, GRADE 11

FSF 3U1

Prerequisite Course: FSF 2D1

CORE FRENCH, GRADE 11

FSF 3U1

Prerequisite Course: FSF 2D1